NUMBER 253

THE NEW STATE GOVERNMENT.

The inauguration of the new State officers took place at Madison on Monday. The occasion was a sort of a gala day for the Capitol city. Eight companies of State militia with the Oshkosh band of twenty pieces, formed the column which escorted the old officers in carriages from the Capitol to the Park hotel, where they were joined by the new ones. A line of arch was then taken around the park to the east gate from which direction the Capitol was approached. The officers then repaired to the executive office, and from there marched in a body to the Assembly chamber where one government was dissolved and another inaugurated. The number of officers-elect by Chief Justice Cole. Governor Smith made very neat and appropriate speech—one richly the man and the hour. Governor also responded after he had taken the oath of office, and his words were chosen and did him great honor. The administration of Governor Smith has been a remarkable clean one. Among the men who have filled the gubernatorial chair in Wisconsin, there has not been one who has served the State with more ability, wisdom, and manly integrity than he. He retires from office, and so do all the other State officers who have served with him, honored for the faithful service which they have given to the State during the past four years. The administration which has just begun has the confidence and the best wishes of the people. Governor Rusk is a man of solid worth. He has had years of experience in public life, and there is in him that practical common sense and knowledge of State and government affairs which will give the people the confidence that his administration will be a success to him and an honor to the State. Other members of the new administration are men well known throughout the State, and are distinguished for their public records and their special fitness to ably fill the offices to which they have been elected.

MOURNING OFF.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—President Arthur's reception to-day was an event of much more than ordinary importance here, from a social view. It was the first occasion on which the present executive opened the doors of the White House to the public, and, besides, it was really the inauguration of the social season of this winter after a season of mourning for a late President. The President was assisted during the official reception by a number of ladies, viz: Mrs. Brewster, Mrs. Lincoln, Mrs. James, Mrs. Miller, of California; Miss Hunt, Mrs. John Davis, Mrs. Frelinghuysen, Mrs. Robeson, Mrs. Pendleton, Mrs. Cameron, of Pennsylvania, and Mrs. H. O. Stone, of Chicago.

THE TARIFF AND UTAH.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Congressman Springer said to-night that he thought after the Utah contested election case was settled, which would be the first fight in the House, they would take up the tariff. He thought the Morrill bill would be over from the Senate by that time, and something of this kind would eventually be passed. He thinks that this will result in a long discussion of say six weeks or two months, relating to tariff matters, and that finally a commission will be authorized to conduct the revision.

A NEW TRIAL.

Guiteau Professes to Be Confident.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—This afternoon Mr. Scoville, two expert physicians, and two reporters called on Guiteau at the jail. To those who saw him, Guiteau talked rather after his usual style, and the only remark of interest made by him was that he hoped that the present trial would soon be ended, as he hoped for better treatment and to be allowed more privileges at the next one, which he believed he would get on exceptions. He said that he did not believe that the government had established its case by any means. He was more cordial in his manner toward Mr. Scoville yesterday than he has been for some days. Scoville, who seemed a fresh, hearty, and vigorous man when he came to Washington to take charge of Guiteau's case, is looking wretched.

AN IRON BRIDGE.

KENNEBUNK, Me., Jan. 2.—At the 8:30 train from Boston to the Boston & Maine railroad, with two engines, crossed the iron bridge at Coles Corner, the bridge gave way after the engines, baggage and parlor cars had crossed, precipitating the other four cars down the embankment, and they immediately caught fire and were destroyed.

There were about 150 passengers on board. One man, name unknown, was killed. J. Henry Downer, of Berwick, Me., was probably fatally hurt. Conductor Weymouth, James Nolan, a brakeman, and Leland and James Carney, of Pittsfield, were badly hurt, and fifteen other passengers severely injured. Some sixty persons besides were severely bruised.

Visible Improvement.

Mr. Noah Bates, Elmira, N. Y., writes: "About four years ago I had an attack of bilious fever, and never fully recovered. My digestive organs were weakened, and I would be completely prostrated for days. After using two bottles of your Bismarck Blood Bitters the improvement was so visible that I was astonished. I can now, though 61 years of age, do a fair and reasonable day's work." Price $1.00, trial bottles 10 cents. Sold by A. J. Roberts, and F. Sherer & Co.

MALTREATED MORMONS.

LONDON, Jan. 2.—Two Mormon missionaries, who attempted to conduct services in one of the suburbs of London yesterday, were grossly maltreated by the mob, and obliged to seek refuge at police headquarters.

SENATOR SHERMAN.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Senator Sherman's friends have implicit confidence in the result of the investigation into the disbursement of the contingent fund now in progress by the Senate committee. Said a prominent Ohioan to-day: "I have known John Sherman in public and in private life for over a quarter of a century, and you may set it down that he will never be convicted of petty larceny. His hands will be found to be clean, and no amount of investigation can hurt him."

THE SHANESVILLE HORROR.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, January 2.—A Gazette special says: "While the Knights of Pythias festival was in progress, Saturday night, in Gollier's hall, Shanesville, Tuscarawas county, Ohio, the floor gave way and the entire company, three hundred in number, fell with it to the floor below. The stove with burning coal fell also and set fire to the building. Four women and one boy perished in the flames, and two others were crushed to death by falling timbers. The citizens, by heroic efforts, extinguished the fire, but not until the casualty list reached nearly one hundred. The death list will probably exceed ten. Shanesville is some miles from the railroad or telegraph, and the names have not been obtained."

OSCAR WILDE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Oscar Wilde, the young poet whose connection with the esthetic movement in England has made him famous, arrived at this port this evening in the Arizona, and will spend the night on board that vessel at quarantine.

MILWAUKEE DEFALCATION.

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 2.—It is expected that to-morrow further legal proceedings will be commenced against Gottlieb Engel, the defaulting young lawyer who is under arrest here for forgery, by some of his numerous victims. Engel admits that he owes at least $30,000 more than he can pay, of which he says $20,000 were borrowed from his father and father-in-law, but it is expected that his indebtedness is much heavier. He denies that Mrs. Klammer, of Madison, will lose the money entrusted to his keeping, this amounting to $12,000, being well invested.

A NEW YEAR'S SACRIFICE.

MINERAL POINT, Wis., Jan. 2.—The mystery as to the cause of the death of John Hutchinson, Jr., whose body was found on the side-walk New Year's morning, is to-day explained by the statement of Richard Tenant that he accidentally shot him while firing a midnight salute. Tenant is held on on the charge of murder, awaiting his examination, to take place to-morrow.

A Back-Handed Speller.

Santa Fe has a young man with a mind which has a faculty that is rarely to be found, if indeed, it can ever be discovered elsewhere. The gentleman in question is Hugh McKevitt, a printer, working over at the military headquarters. He is a rapid type setter and a thoroughly good workman, so that he is not dependent on any side business for a good living, and as a consequence has never said anything about his spelling capacity which is the subject of this item. McKevitt is a left-handed speller, and declares any one to put at him a word which he cannot spell backward as rapidly as the left and quickest speller could give it in the usual way. The other day the reporter fell in with him when he was in a mood more communicative than usual, and had occasion to try him. Incomprehensibility was not a marker for him. As soon as the word was pronounced he said "Fifteen letters," and went at it backward, so fast that his hearers were unable to tell whether he was right or wrong. "You see," said a fellow-printer, "he can tell the number of letters in any word without a moment's hesitation, as well as he can spell it backward, and not only that, but you can give him a whole sentence, and he will tell you at once how many letters there are in it, and go right on and spell through the whole thing backward faster than most people could spell it the other way."

This thing was tried time and time again, and no word or series of words could be hit upon which were not rendered as indicated above. Of course, there are words in the English language which McKevitt has never heard of, just as is the case with almost every other man, but he is what would be called a fine speller, "right at it backward," as fast as is familiar with the language, and any word which he has heard and can spell at all he can spell backward with astonishing rapidity. The strangest part about the whole thing is that McKevitt has never practiced or studied spelling backward a day in his life. He says he does not know how he acquired the ability to do it, but that as soon as he hears or sees a word, even if he has never thought of it before, which of course, is the case with a large majority of words, he knows immediately how many letters there are in it and how to spell it backward or in the regular way. It is so, too, with sentences. He knows at once how many words and letters in any sentence that may be suggested, and states the numbers promptly as soon as the words are uttered. McKevitt can also distribute type backward as fast as forward. In the left-handed spelling there is no theory of sound to aid him, as in very many instances the letters spell nothing at all and cannot be pronounced, so that there is no accounting for his ability to spell in that way except to conclude that it is the result of a gift—a peculiar faculty of a remarkably quick mind.

There is no particular advantage in all this as far as can be discovered, but it is a curiosity and a rare one, and if anybody thinks it isn't hard to do let him try to acquire it.

A Case of Real Distress.

Gilholly was particularly anxious to get the morning paper. As soon as the carrier brought it he searched it diligently. Finally he laid it down, groaned

in his spirit, shook his head, and said:

"Such carelessness! I such reckless carelessness! It's horrible."

"Another steamboat collision?" she asked, carelessly.

"Worse than that. It concerns us personally."

"Oh, Leonidas! has anything happened to mother? Let me know the worst. I can't—I can't bear this suspense. Has anything happened to mother?"

"No such good luck," he was going to say, but he checked himself and replied: "It's worse than that."

She was going to have some hysterics,

so he gently broke the news to her that the card to the public, which he had written himself and signed "Many Citizens," suggesting his name as a candidate for the Legislature, had been left out of the paper, and at once he deprecated the criminal carelessness.—Gal-

The Difference.

There are some differences observable

as we journey through life which we cannot help remarking upon. We find:

The difference between a man and his dog, when they go into a gin shop together, is that the dog never comes out drunk; and the difference between a fashionable young man and a dummy in front of a clothing-store is that the dummy does not swear and swagger and smoke cigarettes and put on more style

than two would be able to carry.

Quinine.

The quinine production of the world

is estimated at from 230,000 to 260,

000 lbs. per year, as follows: Germany,

36,250 lbs.; Italy, 45,000 lbs.; France,

49,500 lbs.; England, 27,000 lbs.; America, 63,000 lbs.; India, 12,250 lbs. Before, are being made to acclimatize the cinchona in Italy. Its successful culture in India and Ceylon encourages the belief that it will grow wherever the soil

is dry, the rainfall large and the climate temperate.
